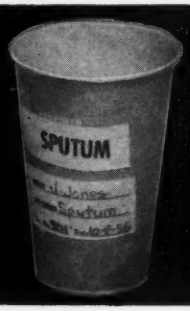
HANDLING TB SPUTUM?



"...Tuberculosis is listed as the second most common type of laboratory infection..."

Sulkin, S. E. and Pike, R. M.—Survey of Laboratory-Acquired Infections. American Journal of Public Health—July, 1951.

Viral diseases have no respect for titles . . . the highest incidence of lab-acquired infections is among trained personnel. Protect your people by using labels they don't have to lick with their tongues—and don't forget—Pre-printed Time Labels can increase efficiency, cut down errors, save time in every hospital department . . . they stick to glass, wax, any container—even in Autoclaves . . . deliver accurate information—write on them with pen or pencil.
